

Sussex County

Sussex County is popular for its charming beach resorts and historic riverside villages. Cultural experiences are unique to Southern Delaware and offer a wide variety of annual activities.

Sussex County is home to Delaware's largest state park, Cape Henlopen State Park (<http://www.destateparks.com/>), which lies along the Atlantic Ocean and also to Prime Hook National Wildlife Refuge, a 10,000-acre refuge for wildlife.

For family fun visit Funland on the Rehoboth Beach boardwalk. Children love the amusement park, which offers rides, skee ball and a variety of arcade and video games.

The Marvel Carriage Museum, located in Georgetown, offers an antique collection of horse-drawn carriages and wagons, along with collections of items from home and farm life.

Every two years in Georgetown, "The Circle" is the center of Return Day activities, an event celebrated on the Thursday after the General Election in November. Return Day is highlighted by a parade, the reading of election results from the Courthouse tower, and the "burying of the hatchet."

Visitors to the Indian River Life-Saving Station are introduced to one of the oldest life-saving stations in the country that is now beautifully restored to the 1905 time period.

If you are visiting Southern Delaware be sure to take advantage of Delaware's tax-free shopping at the Rehoboth Outlets. 140 manufacturers are located in the Outlets' three centers, located along a 2-mile stretch of Highway One.

Sussex County has an abundance of activities for all to enjoy. Be it whale watching, attending the annual jazz festival, or visiting one of the many historic museums, all are sure to take pleasure in southern Delaware.
