

Castle, Baker Focus on Creating Manufacturing Jobs in Delaware -- August 7, 2007

Wilmington, DE -- Delaware Congressman Mike Castle and Wilmington Mayor James Baker visited Masley Enterprises Inc.- Gloveforce Handwear in Wilmington today to stress the importance of finding innovative ways to create jobs in Delaware.

Olympian Frank Masley and his wife Donna Masley, the owners of Masley Enterprises Inc., founded the company in 2000.

Masley Enterprises, Inc. is contracted by the U.S. Military to create protective Handwear for troops. The new protection provided by these gloves exceeds the performance of traditional military Handwear. All labor is done and materials are made in the USA.

Rep.

Castle and Mayor Baker were joined by Clinton Tymes, State Director of the Small Business Development Center (SBDC), Sonia Aguilar, DEDO, John Barone, DeMEP. While visiting, Rep. Castle and Mayor Baker stressed the importance of job creation, utilizing local resources, such as the SBDC, and using products manufactured in Delaware.

"Masley Enterprises Inc. continues to be an asset to Delaware through both innovation and commitment to the community. The Masley's reputation for quality and durability products is well-earned, and I am proud that our troops have access to Gloveforce Handwear," said Castle.

"Frank and Donna Masley are great examples of the creative energy that is helping to bring prosperity and excitement to the Wilmington area. The Masleys' hard work and entrepreneurial spirit benefit not only the Wilmington area by creating valuable manufacturing jobs, but also the Country through their creation of a unique, American-made product that greatly benefits the U.S. military market," said Baker.

"The work team here at Masley Enterprises Inc. is producing quality hand wear products and I am very proud of each team member. It is a real pleasure to showcase their talents to Congressman Mike Castle and Mayor James Baker. With everyone's help we are trying to secure contracts that will result in steady employment and ultimately put protective gloves on the hands of our deserving men and women in the military," said Masley.

"Masley Enterprises Inc. is a shining example of a company that has taken full advantage of the available resources of the SBDC and all levels of government to help businesses start, grow and prosper in Delaware," Tymes said.
